

Dialogue in the Midst of Conflict – Reflective Training for Facilitators
Two-day Workshop in Jerusalem
Sept. 14-15, 2010
9.00 – 17.00 each day

Experience an exciting and innovative two-day workshop with a staff of international professionals in the field of group facilitation. The professionals are from:

- St. Ethelburga's Centre for Reconciliation and Peace, London
<http://stethelburgas.org/>
- Corrymeela, Northern Ireland www.corrymeela.org

St. Ethelburga's has experience in dialogue models, maximizing participation in groups, creating safe space and in the issues that arise around co-facilitation. The Corrymeela Community is committed to reconciliation in Northern Ireland and throughout the world by creating safe spaces where people of diverse backgrounds can come and meet each other, where there is an atmosphere of trust and acceptance and where differences can be acknowledged, explored and accepted.

A unique training package has emerged from an ongoing process of sharing different but complementary experiences of dialogue across divisions. Working together, ICCI, St. Ethelburga's and Corrymeela have developed a training methodology representing the commonalities in our three approaches.

Sessions

- Dialogue in the Midst of Conflict—Challenges, Obstacles and how to deal with them and overcome them
- Comparative conflicts—are there some things unique to a particular conflict; what can we learn from efforts at dialogue and reconciliation from other conflicts?
- Tools to maximize participation -- Open listening, Philosophy for communities, Appreciative inquiry
- Experiential approaches, Creative Methodology, Mediative communication, Conflict Models as a lens to understanding group dynamics, Reflective Practice
- Issues of co-facilitation, Sustaining Dialogue through Crisis

Fee: 160 NIS (includes lunches and coffee breaks)

Space is limited and reservations are required.

Please contact Rakheli Hever at communications@icci.org.il